DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of the species 1) resin in the reply filed on 23 August 2006 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that

1) "the Office has not provided any reasons and/or examples to support a conclusion that the species are patentably distinct," and

2) "Applicant respectfully submits that a search of all the claims would not impose a serious burden on the Office."

This is not found persuasive because

1) applicants cannot possibly believe that a polymer comprising ethylene and propylene that has been treated with shear in the presence of a hydroperoxide, could either read on, obviate or suggest a "copolymer of ethylene with alpha olefins, vinyl acetate or a derivative of acrylic acid" that does not require the treatment or presence of peroxide. Applicants are kindly requested to show what evidence they have to support such a conclusion. There are clear patentable distinctions between the two polymers.

2) It is, indeed, deemed a serious burden on the Office to search the two separate inventions. Applicants are entitled to only one product.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

In future correspondence, applicants must insert the proper claim indicators, including those for claims withdrawn as a result of a species election. Failure to do so will result in a Notice of Non-Compliant form being sent to applicants.

Claim Interpretations

The term "blend" as recited in the claims is deemed to be irrelevant since the claims may embrace only one polymer.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1 and 6-10 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-18 of copending Application No. 11/100,522 (Tanaglia US 2005/0239666). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the product of claim 14 is produced essentially using the same identical process as required herein, including the production of the polymer using shear in the presence of a hydroperoxide.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claims 1 and 6-10 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-13 of copending Application No. 11/014,772 (Tanaglia US 2005/0148724). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims show the treatment using shear and hydroperoxides, as claimed.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1 and 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tanaglia (US 2005/0239666), newly cited

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

The invention, as claimed is shown at the Abstract.

Claims 1 and 6-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tanaglia et al (US 2005/0113518), newly cited.

Claims 1 and 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tanaglia (US 6,211,332), newly cited.

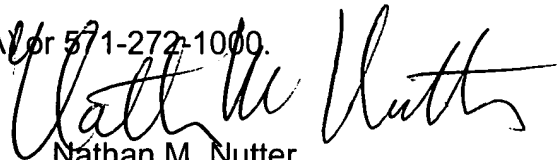

The reference to Tanaglia shows the treatment of EPM or EPDM rubbers with hydroperoxides under shear at the Abstract, column 1 (line 61) to column 2 (line 12), column 2 (lines 23-40) for the temperatures for the treatment as recited in claims 7 and 8, and column 3, Example 2.
